

Years 7&8 - Lesson 5 - Python Continued

Task 1: Please visit the following link: https://www.w3schools.com/python/python_comments.asp Read through the information on the page and then try to complete exercises 1 & 2	TIP: When completing the exercises, click the SHOW ANSWER button if you are stuck.
Task 2: Please visit the following link: https://www.w3schools.com/python/python_variables.asp Read through the information on the page and then try to complete exercises 1-7	Variables are containers for storing data values.
Task 3: Please visit the following link: https://www.w3schools.com/python/python_datatypes.asp Read through the information on the page and then try to complete exercises 1-7	Python has the following data types: Text Type: str Numeric Types: int, float, complex Sequence Types: list, tuple, range Mapping Type: dict Set Types: set, frozenset Boolean Type: bool Binary Types: bytes, bytearray, memoryview
Task 4: Please visit the following link: https://www.w3schools.com/python/python_numbers.asp Read through the information on the page and then try to complete exercises 1-3	There are three numeric types in Python: int float complex
Task 5: Please visit the following link: https://www.w3schools.com/python/exercise.asp?filename=exercise_strings1 Read through the information on the page and then try to complete exercises 1-3	String literals in python are surrounded by either single quotation marks, or double quotation marks.